jQuery Lecture

- Use `$(document).ready(function())` to ensure page loads before initiating scripts
- Can also put script code @ the bottom of the .html file to accomplish the same

EVENT LISTENERS

- .on(click, ul, li, callback)
- Use to dynamically find an element by 'listening' - use what already exists instead of adding a new element
- Use the nearest element as a listener
- don't use ESC arrow functions for 'this'

DOM TREE

HW: Finished advanced jQuery including Contact Card before tomorrow.

- Don't have to specify event; in this all treated the same
